EXHIBITION Fun with Furniture

"Design has never been industrial," designer and thinker Andrea Branzi once said. "It is a field that produces spheres of signs." One of the founders of the Italian radical-design movement, Branzi continues to express his theoretical concerns through furniture design. Through June 11, New York's Friedman Benda gallery will be showing his Planks collection, interior concepts that combine industrial aesthetics with unfinished planks of wood and strokes of airbrushing. Branzi is also showcasing three new floor lamps at the Collective Design fair during NYCxDESIGN. —A.R.
