Peter Marino and William Sofield...

Are among his clients. But Chris Schanck is not interested in materials traditionally associated with luxury nor in perfection. His viewpoint is on display in "Unhomely," at Friedman Benda in New York March 1 through April 14. The show's 15 pieces, including the 8-foot-long Arcane Console, exhibit his signature method of Alufoil, which combines resin, steel, and polystyrene.

He built an entire house...

That was for an exhibition at the Museum of Contemporary Art, Los Angeles. In "Jorge Pardo," at London's Victoria Miro through March 24, the sculptor focuses on lighting, specifically 10 chandeliers. Untitled, however, is floor-mounted, the color of its PETG, or plastic resin, derived from the jungle landscape of Mérida, Mexico, where Pardo is based.
