

The Booths You Can't Miss at Design Miami

TEXT BY HANNAH MARTIN

As the worlds of art and design inch closer and closer toward each other, Design Miami—the function-forward offshoot of Art Basel that runs December 6–10—has evolved from a small satellite fair into a must-see for many collectors. Here, the latest greats in blue-chip vintage (Paul Evans, Albert Frey, Pierre Chapo) sit with gutsy contemporary stars (Misha Kahn, The Campana Brothers, Lindsey Adelman) and a few totally unexpected surprises (a cheery display of Norwegian crafts; tables made of oatmeal). Unsure how to sift through all the stuff? We've narrowed it down to a digestible hit list that will give you the perfect dose of the old, the new, and the just plain cool.

Friedman Benda A shimmering, aquamarine cabinet (one of the first pieces to sell) by Christopher Schanck anchored the Friedman Benda booth this year, starring alongside works by Misha Kahn, the Campana Brothers, Najla El Zein and others.
