ART, April 28, 2018

In addition to the big art fairs that happen during Frieze week, there is no shortage of museum and gallery shows. Here is Whitewaller's list of exhibitions you've got to see in New York.

Erez Nevi Pana

"Consciousness"

Friedman Benda Gallery Chelsea

May 3–June 9

Erez Nevi Pana's first solo show in the United States, "Consciousness," studies the impact of human interaction on the environment. Constructed from salt, asphalt, and plant fibers, the three series on view—"Bleached," "Wasted," and "Unravel"—interrupt, enhance, or combine naturally occurring processes. The highlight of the exhibition is "Bleached," a project motivated by the impact of mineral extraction in the Dead Sea, in which Nevi Pana allowed unnatural objects to crystallize like coral formations. In imitating human influence, the artist evokes "intangible blueprints of our consciousness," the way we mold our environment.
