A news report from Milan

At the upcoming Salone del Mobile 2012, Italian ceramics manufacturer Bisazza will unveil a new Bisazza Bagno collection by Japanese studio Nendo, who will also design the installation.

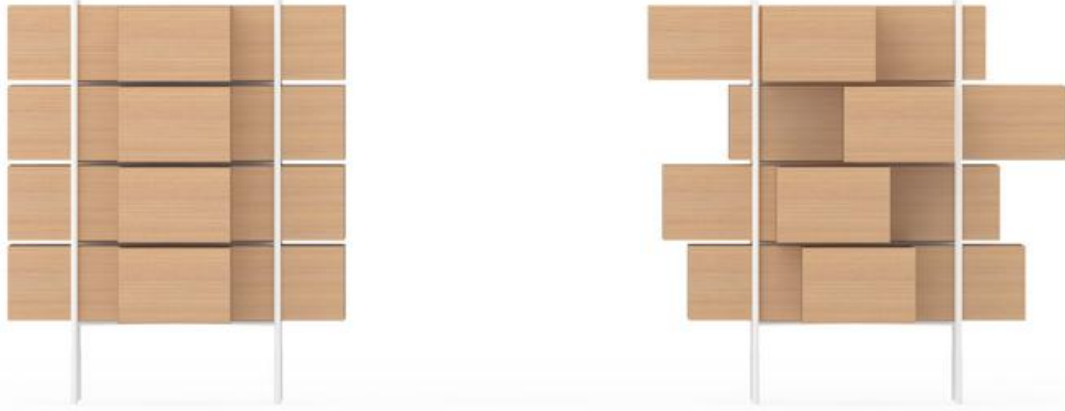

Nendo's Oki Sato has designed what Bisazza calls "a dazzling environment" to showcase the new pieces, which will be displayed alongside Bisazza Bagno's two previous collections by Jaime Hayon and Marcel Wanders.

The Nendo Collection is defined by the pure aesthetic and refined lines that are a recurring feature of Sato's signature style, lending a sense of understated sophistication and style to the bathroom setting. The installation looks to harmoniously integrate this new collection with the distinct styles of both Hayon and Wanders whilst also featuring what is promised to be an "innovative display" of Bisazza's signature product – mosaic tiles.

The exhibition space will present the new mosaic collection for 2012 which includes an exclusive Nendo pattern along with furniture pieces from the company's "Home" collection, expressing Bisazza's "timeless and elegant style" during the design week.
